

The Origin of Love

"Wrapped our arms around each other, tried to shove ourselves back together."

"And there were three sexes then:

One that looked like two men glued up back to back, called the children of the sun.

And similar in shape and girth were the children of the earth. They looked like two girls rolled up in one.

And the children of the moon looked like a fork shoved on a spoon. They were part sun, part earth, part daughter, part son."

- Not fore
- Cooling device
- Bus payment
- Ward (off)
- Oktober follower?
- Not against
- Suffix with insta or tele
- Sewn garment edge
- "No __, ands, or buts"
- Prisoner serving an unending sentence
- Wizard
- __-pedi
- Singer Bruno
- Yoga surfaces
- The current month
- French word?
- "The Origin __ Love"
- Daiquiri component

